Practice Type: As a Licensed Clinical Psychologist in practice for twenty-six years, I utilize problem focused, solution oriented strategies in working with others and am quite comfortable doing therapy on a “short term” basis encouraging clients to return as needed over time. Historically, I have worked with adolescents and adults of all ages providing individual, family and couples therapy treating various symptoms including anxiety, depression, stress, sexual dysfunction, relationship conflicts and family discord where people are having trouble understanding and dealing with each other. For the past 15 years, I have worked a great deal with men and “men’s issues” and have lead numerous groups and workshops helping men to effectively deal with their changing roles in our present day culture. Therapeutic strategies can include my offering alternative ways of viewing problematic circumstances, role playing, recommended readings, “open seat work” (Gestalt Therapy) plus work with dreams. During our initial contact, we will identify and discuss your therapeutic goals for improving your situation, we will develop a mutually agreeable treatment plan and we will determine how often to meet setting a time frame for intervention. Your questions will be welcomed at any time in this process.

For the first session, we will get acquainted with my asking lots of questions about your circumstances and background; research has clearly indicated that the biggest factor in determining therapeutic success is the relationship between us. The Oklahoma Psychological Center where I office is accessible to individuals with disabilities, is near public transportation, and has parking and the main entrance at the rear of the building to insure privacy. In addition to day time appointments beginning at 9 a.m., evening and Saturday time slots are available for your convenience. I look forward to meeting you and having a chance to discuss your concerns.
